Generous Grants to KDC

This year, Kennedy-Donovan Center made great strides in funding its program needs and projects which depend on the generosity of foundation support. Grants were received from community, private, and corporate-based foundations across our service areas.

Attleboro Early Intervention received significant support for specialized programs and equipment needs. The Roy T. Morgan Foundation (see article inside) provided $8,500 to purchase specialized gait trainers and physical therapy equipment for our One-to-One socialization group that assists children with complex medical conditions. The program also received $10,000 from the United Way of Greater Attleboro/Taunton to support a multi-faceted and expanded outreach effort during the coming year. The LG Balfour Foundation awarded Attleboro Early Intervention $12,000 for the purchase of equipment, and Mansfield Bank provided $2,000 to support the purchase of much needed supplies.

Our South Central Early Intervention program received $11,717 from the Greater Worcester Community Foundation for the launch of a new, specialized parent-child support group. Fostering Early Connections will help participants explore mindfulness, learn stress reduction techniques, and develop new ways to connect with their babies.

KDC’s Milford Family Support Center was the recipient of $2,755 in grant funding from Community Partners for Health to partner with other local providers in providing family support group sessions for working parents whose children have developmental disabilities.

We are pleased that our New Bedford programs and projects continue to receive strong support. The New Bedford Early Intervention program received $2,000 for the purchase of supplies and equipment. In addition, our “Building a Brighter Future” capital campaign was generously supported with grants of $25,000 from the Amelia Peabody Charitable Fund, $20,000 from Bristol County Charitable Foundation, and $2,000 from the South Shore Playhouse Associates.
KDC Board Welcomes the Return of Two Members

Fiscal year 2016 began with the return of board members Robert Panesatti and Steve Sanford. This is Bob’s third stretch of service, after completing terms in 1993-2008 and in 2005-2011. A resident of Boston, Bob is First Vice President of wealth management at UBS Financial Services and also serves as Chair of KDC’s Finance Committee. Steve returns after serving from 2007-2014. He is Chief Financial Officer for IneoQuest Technologies in Mansfield and a resident of Mattapoisett. Steve will also be serving on the Finance Committee of the board of directors.

At this time, we also bid a fond farewell, but not goodbye to Ted Carr, board member since 2010. Ted will continue to serve as chair of the “Building A Brighter Future” capital campaign to raise $500,000 for the renovations of the property at 285 County Street, the former Ahavath Achim synagogue. Ted is also leading the search committee for KDC’s new President and CEO. We are grateful for his continued involvement and leadership.

In addition, we said goodbye to board member Robert McGowan, who served on the board of directors from 2011-2015 and as Treasurer for the last four years. Bob and his family relocated to New York City, and we wish him well in his new pursuits. He will certainly be missed!

Roy T. Morgan Foundation Makes an Impact

In 2014, KDC’s Attleboro Early Intervention program identified a small group of children whose conditions impacted their ability to participate in our traditional social groups. In typical fashion, our therapists responded with a One-to-One group to accommodate the special needs of the children, provide them with a chance to socialize, use the center’s therapeutic equipment, and make regular visits to community-based activities.

The program was a great success except that it was missing equipment necessary to provide effective physical therapy. Since our Early Intervention Program has no funding to support specialized purchases, we rely on donated equipment, which is often outdated or missing parts.

In March, we received $8,500 from the Roy T. Morgan Foundation to solve this problem. This grant was generous enough to cover the entire cost of two very specialized, and very needed gait trainers. These pieces of equipment were a perfect fit for the One-to-One participants and made all the difference in their therapies. KDC is very grateful to organizations like the Roy T. Morgan Foundation, who play an integral role in helping us achieve our mission, and meet the needs of those who we serve.

Building a Brighter Future Campaign Update

Renovations are ongoing at the newly purchased building on County Street, New Bedford. KDC is preserving the history of the former Ahavath Achim synagogue, while it transitions into the home base for staff to provide quality community-based programs, with plenty of room for continued growth. Healthy Families, Foster Care, and Adult and Residential programs will operate from this location which is across the street from the KDC Special Education School, Early Intervention and Day Habilitation programs.

The project is funded in part by private donations and the city of New Bedford. Our goal is to raise $100,000 from the community and we are proud to announce that 76% has been raised to date. The community has embraced the project and we look forward to our new location and to building a brighter future.
Annual Spring Celebration: Another Great Success

Kennedy-Donovan Center’s Annual Spring Celebration held on April 18th at Lombardo’s in Randolph was a night to remember. Raising a record $74,000, it was an evening filled with inspiration, laughter and wonderful stories.

The evening’s guest speaker, Justin O’Connell, a participant in KDC’s Transitional Job Support program, moved guests to tears, and was given a standing ovation for his inspirational story. Justin has endured physical disabilities as a result of scoliosis and in 2006, after receiving surgery to correct his spine, had to learn to walk all over. Today, he is a marathoner and employee at Red Robin with help from KDC. His inspiring story has brought about the motto, “Justin Strong.”

Auctioneer Dan Flynn was a big hit with the crowd and helped us raise much-needed funds from the live auction. Along with Justin’s motivating speech, a new video by Maverick Productions, some beautiful artwork and one-of-a-kind pieces created by individuals we serve generated enthusiasm and a strong show of support for KDC’s mission.

We are grateful to event sponsor Webster Bank, to leadership sponsor IneoQuest Technologies, and to advocacy sponsor TJX Companies for their continued support. Our sincere thanks to all our sponsors and attendees who made the night a success.

ADDP 2015 Award Recipients

The Association of Developmental Disabilities Providers (ADDP) presented awards at their annual conference. Kennedy-Donovan Center is proud to congratulate Justin O’Connell and Barbara Tumeinski on being recognized for their perseverance and compassion.

Barbara Tumeinski
Individual Support Professional Award
KDC Case Manager, Milford Individual Support Program

This award recognizes a direct support professional who demonstrates excellence and their commitment to individuals with developmental disabilities. Barbara demonstrates these characteristics and more. She has been with Kennedy-Donovan Center for the past eight years, working in the Individual Support program. She’s a strong advocate for the adults being supported and encourages them to get involved in the community so they can grow, develop friendships, and learn the life skills needed to live more independently. She loves people, works hard and enjoys working with the adults. For Barbara, it’s more than just a job.

Justin O’Connell
Self-Determination Award
Participant, KDC Employment Support Employed at Red Robin, Foxboro

This award recognizes an individual with intellectual/developmental disabilities or brain injury who pursues and achieves personal goals. In 2006, Justin underwent surgery to correct curvature of his spine caused by scoliosis. During his recovery, everyday was a fight to walk, but he was determined to overcome his physical challenges. With hard work, his walking got stronger and soon after Justin decided to try running. After completing his first few road races, Justin aimed high and today, Justin is a four time marathoner who exemplifies the description and so much more. He is an inspiring young man who strives to be his best with his “never give up” attitude.
